Camp Gray asks that participants bring their own masks. Participants are encouraged to make use of camp's outdoor space and limit indoor group time as much as possible.

Below are guidelines to follow for anyone preparing food or participating in group meals.

Policy & Procedures for COVID-19 Exposure & Positive Tests

- Transparency & Charity: All staff, volunteers, and participants coming to camp should be transparent and honest about any health concerns related to the COVID-19 situation. We must always act in charity in our response to possible COVID-19 symptoms or concerns. For example, we would always assume in charity that someone not wearing a mask has a good reason for not doing so.
- Response to Participants/Volunteers Who Test Positive for COVID-19: If an employee, volunteer, or participant tests positive for COVID -19, the spaces in which that person worked or resided should be closed off and deep cleaned. The individual will be expected to be quarantined for at least 10 days AND until he/she is fever free for 24hrs without medication AND other symptoms have subsided. A staff or volunteer may not return to serve at camp unless he or she meets the following criteria: fever free for 3 days (without medicine), symptoms have subsided, and county requirements for quarantine have been observed, OR at least 10 days have passed without any symptoms.
- Response of Those Who Show Symptoms, Have Been Exposed or Suspect Illness: Those who begin to show symptoms of illness or suspect illness should not come to Camp Gray. In the event that an individual develops symptoms while at Camp Gray they will be isolated and/or sent home as soon as possible. A space that was occupied by the individual should be disinfected. The individual should choose a self-imposed quarantine (according to county guidelines) and seek a COVID-19 test. No one should return to service until any necessary quarantine ends and symptoms have subsided.
- Children/Families Who Test Positive for COVID-19: Families who have one member who tests positive for COVID-19 should assume that all members have been exposed. Families ought to consider quarantining as a unit or having all members tested. Members of the family should not come to camp until 14 days after the last family has been without symptoms.

- Notification to Participants at Camp Gray Regarding a Positive COVID -19 Test: If a staff, volunteer, or participant tests positive for COVID-19, Camp Gray will, upon notification, immediately contact medical authority or public health officials for consultation and follow appropriate directives/suggestions, especially for those who may have been exposed to the infected person. Directives may include notification to participants, parents, staff, etc., with appropriate instructions to individuals. Exposure cases may vary in potential severity and risk based on the situational elements at the time and place of exposure, such as the symptomatic nature of the infected person at the time of exposure, the duration of exposure, the proximity of exposure, protective measures in place at the time (e.g., facial coverings), and the confined nature of the space. The potential directives for an exposure case may vary as well, including sanitation of space, testing, monitoring for symptoms, tracing, tracking, and quarantining.
